RIDICULE ALWAYS A POWER

Even Eloquence Bows Before the Light Shafts That Can Wound So Deeply.

President Hadley of Yale in his last annual report said that the idle rich were as great a curse to a college as to a community.

"Ridicule, could it but be employed, would turn the idle rich undergraduate to industry," said President Hadley at a dinner in New Haven, "but unfortunately this young man, with his panoply of motor cars, hunters and bulldogs, is not very vulnerable to ridicule. Riches, alas, are not so easily ridiculed as—say—low stature."

He smiled.
"A tiny, decadent poet," he resumed, "launched at a Philadelphia literary club into a passionate tirade against marriage. It was great nonsense, that tirade, but the little poet was eloquent, and his younger auditors were visibly impressed."
"With a contemptuous smile a robust novelist of the wholesome type watched the spouting poet pace the room and at the end of an impressive period the novelist chuckled and said:
"Sit down, Brown; sit down. You look taller sitting down."

WHAT HE SAID.

Attorney—I insist on an answer to my question. You have not told me all the conversation. I want to know everything that passed between you and Mr. Gibson on the occasion to which you refer.

Reluctant Witness—I've told you everything of any consequence.

"You have told me what you said to him: 'Gibson, this case will get into the courts some day.' Now I want to know what he said in reply."

"Well, he said: 'Chumley, there isn't anything in this business that I'm ashamed of, and if any snoopin' little hee-hawin', four-by-six, gimlet-eyed lawyer, with half a pound of brains and 16 pounds of jaw, ever wants to know what I've been talking to you about, you can tell him the whole story.'—Tit-Bits.

A QUEER CHASER.

Dr. John Duncan Quackenbos, New York's authority on hypnotism, was discussing at his beautiful New Hampshire estate on Lake Sunapee the absurdity of dreams.

"You must have noticed," said Dr. Quackenbos, "the absurd, the causeless terror that a dream will sometimes give you."

"I know a man who, still but half awake, ran into his wife's room in the middle of the night, all shaken with fear, all wet with the cold sweat of an overpowering terror."

"Oh," he moaned, "I have had such a dreadful dream. I've been chased round and round my room for hours and hours by a piece of blotting paper."

SEA LIONS CAPTURE GULLS.

The sea lion displays no little skill and cunning in capturing gulls. When in pursuit the sea lion dives deeply under water and swims some distance from where it disappeared; then, rising cautiously, it exposes the tip of its nose along the surface, at the same time giving it a rotary motion. The unwary bird near by alights to catch the object, while the sea lion at the same moment settles beneath the waves and at one bound, with extended jaws, seizes its screaming prey and instantly devours it.

REMOVES INK, NOT PINK.

"I had a sheer pink silk waist, on which I unfortunately spilled some ink. I took some peroxide of hydrogen and wet the goods with it, then put it in the sun for a little while."

"In about half an hour ink spots were gone and the color remained intact. Peroxide of hydrogen can be used on the most delicate color and it will take stains out admirably. I have also used it with great success on my fine white lawn waists."—Harper's Bazar.

HYMN 333.

A youth named Harry Jordan sat at a recent examination at one of the eastern colleges. When he learned the result, he telegraphed to his people:

"Hymn 333, verse 5, last two lines. Harry."

The anxious father turned to his hymn book and read the comforting couplet:

"Sorrow vanquished, labor ended, Jordan passed."

Democratic State Campaign Fund.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5, 1908.

My dear sir:—The State Democratic Committee desires to appeal to the Democratic county press to take a part in the work of raising funds for the expenses of this campaign. The Republicans will doubtless have more money at their disposal this year than ever before in the history of politics to use in an effort to carry the State for their National and State tickets. This committee must depend upon the loyalty and enthusiasm of individual Democrats to contribute a fund sufficient to meet the legitimate expenses of our campaign.

Several county papers have voluntarily undertaken this work. I hope that you will cordially co-operate with us in this labor and suggest that you personally solicit a list of subscribers at once in sums of $1.00 and over; publish the names and amount contributed by each in your paper and ask for other contributions. The amount may be sent by draft to the State Democratic Committee, Room 460 Southern Hotel.

I am sending you herein some blanks for soliciting subscriptions. If the lists are returned to me, you can promise each subscriber who wants one a large picture of Mr. Bryan or Mr. Cowherd free.

Thanking you in advance for your support of this suggestion, I am

Yours very truly,

H. F. CHILDERS

Chairman News Bureau State Committee.
